

ABSTRACT

Device, systems, and methods to detect unknown transmission formats are provided. Viterbi metric values may be calculated for a plurality of possible format parameters for a transmission format. Format metric values may be calculated for a plurality of the calculated Viterbi metric values, and the calculated format metric values may be compared. Based on the comparison, a probable transmitted format from a set of possible formats may be determined.